

Operational Ambulance

The IDF's military ambulances are intended to evacuate soldiers to hospitals and provide a medical response in emergency scenarios. They have a high mobility capability to reach the variety of outposts and bases and are part of the medical response to any routine and emergency military activity.

Through these ambulances, the medical authorities are able to provide optimal and available treatment to IDF soldiers, as well as to the citizens of the country who need medical treatment, and they were built to provide the optimal conditions for receiving wounded and patients who also need life-saving treatment.

THE MISSION

- Providing medical care in training and operations.
- Evacuation of casualties in serious situations that require treatment and monitoring during evacuation.
- Evacuation of soldiers to health facilities.
- Assistance in moving patients between medical facilities.
